advanced with interest thereon without evidence of health or to pay one or more of the unpaid premiums and thus further extend the period for which the policy could be kept in force. If it is not so repaid, the policy will cease and all liability of the Department thereunder will terminate, except to the extent of any balance of surrender value left in favour of the party on the date of termination after adjustment of all unpaid premiums with interest and other amounts due to the office. The policy may, however, be revived at any time during the life time of the insured under the provisions of Rule 19.
